Visionaries: African Americans Tell Their Stories

(Source: http://iipdgital.usembassy.gov)

For nearly a decade, the nonprofit National Visionary Leadership Project (NVLP) collected the oral histories of extraordinary African-American elders who helped shape America's culture and history. NVLP recorded interviews with more than 200 people, ranging from ordinary citizens to renowned artists, politicians and civil rights leaders. The recordings are archived at the Library of Congress American Folklife Center, and clips from the interviews can be seen on the NVLP website. This photo gallery offers a selection of clips featuring Dorothy Height, Toni Morrison, Maya Angelou, Carmen de Lavallade, Odetta and Coretta Scott King.

Black History Month Honors Legacy of Struggle and Triumph

Each February, Black History Month honors the struggles and triumphs of millions of American citizens over the most devastating obstacles — slavery, prejudice, poverty — as well as their contributions to the nation's cultural and political life.

LITERATURE

Multicultural Literature in United States Today

(Source: http://iipdigital.usembassy.gov)

The United States is enriched culturally by immigrants from many nations. This edition of eJournal USA focuses on distinguished American writers from various ethnic backgrounds who add immeasurably to mutual understanding and appreciation through tales of their native lands and their experiences as Americans.

National African American History Month 2012

(Source: www.whitehouse.gov)

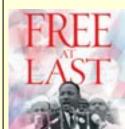

The story of African Americans is a story of resilience and perseverance. It traces a people who refused to accept the circumstances under which they arrived on these shores, and it chronicles the generations who fought for an America that truly reflects the ideals enshrined in our founding documents. It is the narrative of slaves who shepherded others along the path to freedom and preachers who organized against the rules of Jim Crow, of young people who sat-in at lunch counters and ordinary men and women who took extraordinary risks to change our Nation for the better. During African American History Month, we celebrate the rich legacy of African Americans and honor the remarkable contributions they have made to perfecting our Union.

Martin Luther King, Jr., Federal Holiday 2012

(Source: www.whitehouse.gov)

On a hot summer day nearly half a century ago, an African American preacher with no official title or rank gave voice to our Nation's deepest aspirations, sharing his dream of an America that ensured the true equality of our people. From the steps of the Lincoln Memorial, the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Ir. inspired a movement that would push our country toward a more perfect Union.
